

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
CENTRAL DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

JOHN Q. RODGERS,

Plaintiff,

v.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Defendant.

No. CV 15-9441 PA (ASx)

FINDINGS OF FACT AND
CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Court, sitting without a jury, conducted a bench trial on June 13, 2017.

Following the Court Trial, the Court ordered the parties to submit proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law. Pursuant to the Court’s instructions, the parties reviewed the other side’s proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law and marked them to indicate the particular factual assertions and legal conclusions they agreed with and those they disputed, and also filed their reasons for their objections. (Dkt. Nos. 106-111.) The facts that are in dispute on which the Court relies in reaching its conclusion are supported by the record. Unless otherwise noted, where evidence is subject to an evidentiary objection, and the Court has relied on that evidence, the Court has overruled the evidentiary objection for the reason or reasons identified by the party offering the evidence in response to the other side’s objection. Where the Court has refused to consider evidence subject to an

1 objection, the Court will indicate the basis for sustaining the evidentiary objection. All other
2 evidentiary objections to evidence that the Court has not relied on or cited in these Findings
3 of Fact and Conclusions of Law are denied as moot.

4 After reviewing the evidence, the parties' objections to that evidence, and the parties'
5 pre-trial and post-trial submissions, the Court makes the following Findings of Fact and
6 Conclusions of Law pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 52(a). Any finding of fact
7 that constitutes a conclusion of law is hereby adopted as a conclusion of law, and any 8 conclusion of law that constitutes a finding of fact is hereby adopted as a finding of fact.

9 Findings of Fact

10 1. Plaintiff John Q. Rodgers ("Rodgers" or "Plaintiff") initiated this action on 11 December 7, 2015, by filing a Complaint for Refund and Abatement of Tax Penalties against 12 defendant United States of America (the "Government"). (Docket No. ("Dkt.") 1.) Plaintiff
13 is a licensed certified public accountant and attorney against whom the Internal Revenue
14 Service (the "IRS") assessed fourteen $5,000.00 penalties under 26 U.S.C. § 6694(b)
15 ("Section 6694(b)") for willful or reckless understatements of liability on tax returns
16 prepared by Plaintiff.

17 2. After Plaintiff filed this action, the Government conceded five of the fourteen
18 penalties. The remaining nine tax returns which the Government maintains Plaintiff
19 prepared in violation of Section 6694(b) consist of the 2009 and 2010 tax returns for Joseph
20 Ross ("Ross"), Scott Keller ("Keller"), Rossmith Packaging, Inc. ("Rossmith"), and Ross
21 Pac, Inc. ("Ross Pac"), as well as the 2010 tax return for Freshtech Inc. ("Freshtech").

22 3. Plaintiff asserts that each of these nine penalties were inappropriately assessed
23 against him, and seeks the return of the portion of the penalty Plaintiff paid as a requirement
24 for filing this action, see 26 U.S.C. 6694(c), and abatement of the unpaid balance of the 25 penalty.

26 4. The Government filed a Counterclaim seeking judgment in the amount of 27 $61,034.48, the unpaid balance of the penalty. (Dkt. 12.)
28

1           5.       Rodgers is a licensed California attorney and has been so since 1985. Rodgers
2 Decl. (Dkt. 60), ¶ 5.

3           6.       Rodgers is a certified public accountant and has been so since 1989. Rodgers
4 Decl.(Dkt. 60), ¶ 4.

5           7.       Rodgers has been working as an accountant and a tax attorney in his own
6 practice since 1986. Rodgers Decl. (Dkt. 60), ¶ 6.

7           8.       Since 2010, Rodgers has conducted his tax-return-preparation practice through 8 a corporation named John Q. Rodgers Law Corporation. Rodgers Decl. (Dkt. 60), ¶ 8.

9           9.       Before starting his own practice, he worked as a staff tax accountant at Arthur
10 Anderson & Co and as a tax practitioner at Computer Language Research/Fast-Tax; Del
11 Ferguson CPA; and the Law Offices of Tim Moore. Rodgers Decl. (Dkt. 60), ¶ 7.

12          10.      Ramon Barbieri is a certified public accountant and has been so since 1988.
13 Barbieri Decl. (Dkt. 63), ¶ 2.

14          11.      In 2003, Barbieri joined John Rodgers in his office, but maintained his own
15 practice. Barbieri Decl. (Dkt. 63), ¶ 5.

16          12.      In 2009 or 2010, Barbieri and Rodgers formed a partnership. Barbieri Decl.
17 (Dkt. 63), ¶ 6.

18          13.      Barbieri's professional focus is financial accounting. Barbieri Decl. (Dkt. 63), 19 ¶ 7.

20          14.      Alla Troitskaya is a tax return preparer employed by Rodgers since 2004.
21 Trial Tr. (Troitskaya) at 159:16.

22          15.      Troitskaya processes about half of Rodgers's tax-return volume. Trial Tr.
23 (Rodgers) at 33:3-4.

24          16.      As a tax professional, Rodgers knows the following:

25               a.      As taxable income increases, tax increases. Trial Tr. (Rodgers) at 17:6-26                       7.

27               b.      As deductions increase, tax decreases. Trial Tr. (Rodgers) at 17:8-10.

28               c.      Expenses can be deducted only once. Trial Tr. (Rodgers) at 18:2-5.

- 1 d. To claim a deduction, the expense must actually be incurred. Trial Tr.
2 (Rodgers) at 18:24-25.
- 3 e. Personal expenses are not deductible by as business expenses. Trial Tr.
4 (Rodgers) at 40:2-8.
- 5 17. As a tax professional, Rodgers understands that in the preparation of tax 6 returns:
- 7 a. He has a duty not to ignore the implications of information furnished to 8 him or actually known by him. Trial Tr. (Rodgers) at 37:18-21.
- 9 b. He must make reasonable inquiries if the information as furnished
10 appears to be incorrect or incomplete. Trial Tr. (Rodgers) at 37:22-25.
- 11 18. Regarding the preparation of corporate tax returns, Rodgers understands that:
- 12 a. The multiple corporations with common owners increases the 13 complexity of the tax returns. Trial Tr. (Rodgers) at 20:17-21:12.
- 14 b. The presence of cash flows between such companies requires the tax 15 return preparer to make sure that the cash flows are properly accounted 16 for. Trial Tr. (Rodgers) at 21:6-9.
- 17 19. Ross and Keller owned and operated Rossmith in 2009 and 2010. Ross Decl.
18 (Dkt. 55), ¶¶ 1, 4, 8, 9.
- 19 20. Ross and Keller owned and operated Ross Pac in 2009 and 2010. Ross Decl.
20 (Dkt. 55), ¶¶ 2, 5, 8, 10.
- 21 21. Ross and Keller owned two-thirds of Freshtech and operated Freshtech in 22 2009 and 2010. Ross Decl. (Dkt. 55), ¶¶ 3, 6-8, 10.
- 23 22. Dana Styck is the bookkeeper/controller of Rossmith, Ross Pac, and Freshtech
24 and has been so since July 2009. Styck Decl. (Dkt. 56), ¶¶ 1, 2.
- 25 23. The bookkeeper/controller of Rossmith employed immediately before Styck
26 was previously employed by Rodgers. Ross Decl. (Dkt. 55), ¶ 24; Trial Tr. (Styck) at 90:14-27 16 & 20-24.
- 28

1           24.     Before 2009, Rodgers was Ross's personal accountant and tax return preparer
2 for many years. Ross Decl. (Dkt. 55), ¶ 14.

3           25.     Before 2009, Rodgers was Rossmith's outside accountant and tax return
4 preparer for many years. Ross Decl. (Dkt. 55), ¶ 14.

5           26.     After Ross Pac was formed, Rodgers also served as the outside accountant and 6 tax return preparer for Ross Pac. Ross Decl. (Dkt. 55), ¶ 16.

7           27.     After Freshtech was formed, Rodgers also served as the outside accountant
8 and tax-return preparer for Freshtech. Ross Decl. (Dkt. 55), ¶ 18.

9           28.     Before 2009, Rodgers provided Ross with tax, accounting, and financial 10 advice regarding Ross's businesses for many years. Ross Decl. (Dkt. 55), ¶ 19.

11           29.     For example, in 2002, Rodgers advised Ross about the tax consequences of 12 home office including what expenses are deductible and their placement on the tax return.
13 Trial testimony (Rodgers) at 35:12-16, 42:7-20; Rodgers Decl. (Dkt. 60), ¶ 67.

14           30.     Until 2012, Rodgers had prepared Ross's individual and Rossmith's corporate 15 tax returns since the 1980s. Rodgers Decl., ¶ 30.

16           31.     During 2009 and 2010, Keller owned a condominium in West Hollywood,
17 California, referred to as the Kings Road Condo. Keller Dep. (Dkt. 42), 102:9-106-6.

18           32.     Keller planned to use the Kings Road Condo for his business travel to the west
19 coast. Keller Dep. (Dkt. 42), 102:9-106:6.

20           33.     Keller told Rodgers of his plan for the Kings Road Condo in 2008 and
21 provided to Rodgers a lease agreement dated March 2008 between himself and Rossmith
22 regarding the Kings Road Condo. Exhibit 15; Rodgers Decl. (Dkt. 60), ¶¶ 60, 61; Keller
23 Dep. (Dkt. 42), 102:9-106:6.

24           34.     Keller changed his mind, however, and rented out the Kings Road Condo to an
25 unrelated person. The Kings Road Condo was never used for business purposes. Keller
26 Dep. (Dkt. 42), 102:9-106:6.

27           35.     Although Keller never used the Kings Road Condo for business, Rossmith
28 paid various expenses associated with the Kings Road condominium in 2009. Specifically,

1 in 2009 Rossmith paid a total of $50,565.98 for expenses associated with Keller's Kings
2 Road Condo. Rossmith was reimbursed $1,831.35 by Freshtech and $19,582.96 by Ross
3 Pac for those expenses. Keller Dep. (Dkt. 42), 103:24-25); Ex.126 at US001209.

4 36. Rossmith also paid various expenses associated with the Kings Road Condo in
5 2010. Specifically, in 2010 Rossmith paid a total of $55,013.08 toward Keller's Kings Road
6 Condo. Rossmith was reimbursed $28,656.41 by Freshtech and $26,040.04 by Ross Pac for 7 those expenses. Keller Dep. (Dkt. 42), 103:24-25; Ex. 127 at US001452-1453.

8 37. In addition, in 2009, Rossmith paid to Keller or on behalf of Keller, property
9 taxes for the Kings Road Condo of $7,942.52. Styck Decl. (Dkt. 56), ¶20; Ex. 126 at 10 US001197.

11 38. In addition, in 2010, Rossmith paid to Keller or on behalf of Keller, property
12 taxes for the Kings Road Condo of at least $3,508.40. Styck Decl. (Dkt. 56), ¶20; Ex. 127 at 13 US001441-42.

14 39. For purposes of preparation of his 2009 and 2010 personal tax returns, Keller
15 provided to Rodgers's office a summary of his expenses for the Kings Road Condo.
16 Troitskaya Decl. (Dkt. 58), ¶39; Ex. 56.

17 40. The 2009 profit-and-loss statements for Rossmith included an expense item of 18 $29,161.57 for the Kings Road Condo. Ex. 145 at Rodgers_000958 ("Rent Kings Road 19 Condo $29,161.57); Ex. 146 at Rodgers_000947; Ex. 235 at Rodgers_000934.

20 41. Keller's W-2 from Rossmith for 2009 did not include the $50,565.98 paid by
21 Rossmith, Ross Pac, and Freshtech for expenses for the Kings Road Condo nor the property
22 tax of $7,942.52. Ex. 21 at US003293; Ex. 63 at US003266; Ex. 126 at US001193-94.

23 42. Keller's W-2 from Rossmith for 2010 did not include the $55,013.08 paid by
24 Rossmith, Ross Pac, and Freshtech for expenses for the Kings Road Condo nor the property
25 tax of at least $3,508.40. Ex. 64 at US003328; Ex. 234 at Rodgers_001210; Ex. 127 at 26 US001438.

1           43.     Since 2006, Rossmith, Ross Pac, and Freshtech share office space, office
2 equipment, office supplies, and employees. Ross Decl. (Dkt. 61), ¶ 27; Styck Decl. (Dkt.
3 56), ¶ 13.

4           44.     In addition, Rossmith, Ross Pac, and Freshtech share the expenses associated
5 with the shared office space, office equipment, office supplies, and employees. Rodgers
6 Decl. (Dkt. 60), ¶¶ 43, 44; Styck Decl. (Dkt. 56), ¶14.

7           45.     Rossmith, Ross Pac, and Freshtech each maintain a separate general ledger as 8 part of its normal bookkeeping practices. Styck Decl. (Dkt. 56), ¶¶ 5-12; Styck Decl. (Dkt.
9 59), ¶ 7; Trial Tr. (Styck) at 71:3-4.

10          46.     A general ledger is a set of accounts providing a complete record of the 11 financial transactions of a company. Styck Decl. (Dkt. 56), ¶ 4.

12          47.     In the general ledger, the expenditures of the company are categorized into 13 different categories, such as insurance, postage, telephone, and other designated categories.
14 Styck Decl., (Dkt. 56), ¶ 4; Trial Tr. (Rodgers) at 23:24-24:8.

15          48.     From the general ledgers, the total amount paid by Rossmith for different
16 types of expenses may be determined. Styck Decl. (Dkt. 56), ¶¶ 16-19.

17          49.     In addition, the amount of contribution to that expense from Ross Pac and 18 Freshtech and the net amount paid by Rossmith for the expense categories may be 19 determined from the general ledgers. Styck Decl. (Dkt. 56), ¶¶ 16-19.

20          50.     Rodgers and Barbieri were familiar with and understood the procedures and 21 financial records being used by Rossmith, Ross Pac, and Freshtech. Barbieri Decl. (Dkt.
22 63), ¶¶ 27-29; Rodgers Decl. (Dkt. 60), ¶¶ 41-48, 77, 85.

23          51.     In 2007, Rodgers suggested that Rossmith, Ross Pac, and Freshtech enter into 24 an agreement memorializing their cost-sharing arrangement. Rodgers Decl. (Dkt. 60), ¶ 47.

25          52.     Rodgers knew of the cost-sharing arrangement between Rossmith, Ross Pac,
26 and Freshtech in 2007. Rodgers Decl. (Dkt. 60), ¶¶ 42-48.

1           53.     Generally speaking, the expenses of Rossmith, Ross Pac, and Freshtech are
2 paid by Rossmith, although occasionally, Ross Pac and Freshtech paid their own expenses
3 directly to vendors. Styck Decl. (Dkt. 56), ¶ 14.

4           54.     Ross Pac and Freshtech occasionally paid to Rossmith lump-sum payments.
5 Styck Decl. (Dkt. 56), ¶ 15; Ex. 128 at US000566.

6           55.     From the lump-sum payments from Ross Pac and Freshtech, Rossmith would
7 allocate portions of the payment to various expenses. Styck Decl. (Dkt. 56), ¶¶ 14, 15;
8 Styck Decl. (Dkt. 59), ¶¶ 28, 29; Ex. 126.

9           56.     Typically, an accounting category designated as “suspense” is a temporary 10 holding account for transactions that the bookkeeper needs further guidance from an 11 accountant to categorize properly. Trial Tr. (Rodgers) at 27:23-29:7).

12           57.     To a trained tax preparer such as Rodgers, a negative balance on a 13 profit-and-loss statement signifies something amiss necessitating further inquiry by the 14 preparer. Trial Tr. (Rodgers) at 45:23-46:7.

15           58.     Clients would frequently contact Rodgers’s office, and sometimes Rodgers
16 himself for direction as to how to treat items placed in suspense accounts. Trial Tr.
17 (Rodgers) at 27-28.

18           59.     Rossmith, Ross Pac, and Freshtech each had a suspense account. Trial Tr.
19 (Styck) at 80:21-22.

20           60.     Barbieri directed Styck to rename the “suspense account” in Rossmith’s
21 general ledger as “corporate-operating expenses.” Barbieri Decl. (Dkt. 63), ¶ 29; Ex 34.

22           61.     The suspense account and the corporate-operating-expense account are the 23 same thing. Trial Tr. (Styck) at 81:17-22.

24           62.     Funds from Ross Pac and Freshtech that Rossmith did not allocate to a specific 25 shared expense were allocated to an account designated the “suspense account.” For 26 example, a March 20, 2009 check for $50,000 from Ross Pac, Rossmith allocated $8,775.06
27 to the suspense/corporate-operating-expense account. Barbieri Decl. (Dkt. 63), ¶ 29; Ex.
28 126 at US001208-09.

1           63.     Amounts remaining in Rossmith's suspense account after expenses were
2 allocated to a specific expense category was income to Rossmith. Barbieri Decl. (Dkt. 63),
3 ¶¶ 27-29; Styck Decl. (Dkt. 59), ¶¶ 28-31; Ex. 11 (Rodgers_002587); Ex. 12
4 (Rodgers_002590).

5           64.     Barbieri understood that merely transferring money from one company to 6 another does not make the transfer a deductible expense. Trial Tr. (Barbieri) at 184:19-24.

7           65.     Rodgers's general tax preparation procedure was to have an individual other
8 than Mr. Rodgers or the initial tax return preparer review the tax return and raise any factual
9 or legal questions. Barbieri Decl. (Dkt. 63), ¶¶ 17-22; Rodgers Decl. (Dkt. 60), ¶¶ 19-23;
10 Troitskaya Decl. (Dkt. 58), ¶¶ 11-15.

11           66.     For the 2009 and 2010 tax returns for Ross, Keller, Rossmith, Ross Pac, and 12 Freshtech, Troitskaya was the initial preparer. After Troitskaya completed her tasks
13 regarding the 2009 and 2010 tax returns for Ross, Keller, Rossmith, Ross Pac, and 14 Freshtech, the returns were given directly to Rodgers for tax review. Barbieri reviewed the 15 accounting for the corporate return. Rodgers Decl. (Dkt. 60), ¶¶ 74, 77.

16           67.     Troitskaya viewed the preparation of the tax returns for Rossmith, Ross Pac,
17 and Freshtech as very complex. Troitskaya agreed that she had never before seen returns
18 like the returns for Ross, Keller, Rossmith, Ross Pac, and Freshtech. Trial Tr. (Troitskaya)
19 at 152:22-153:9.

20           68.     In the preparation of the corporate tax returns, neither Rodgers nor Troitskaya
21 reviewed the general ledgers of the companies. Rodgers Decl. (Dkt. 60), ¶ 80.

22           69.     There was no impediment to Rodgers requesting the general ledgers of the 23 companies had he chosen to do so. Trial Tr. (Rodgers) at 30:2-10. But Rodgers did not, and 24 would not request the general ledgers "unless there's a reason," because it is not cost
25 effective. Trial Tr. (Rodgers) at 30:15-18 ("We try to be cost effective. The entire set of the 26 returns-of seven returns, including three individuals, cost about 6700 bucks. We can't get 27 that done and look at the general ledgers unless there's a reason.").

1           70.     Rodgers and his staff would suggest modifications for Styck to make to the 2 profit-and-loss statements. Styck also made changes to the general ledger at the direction of
3 Rodgers and his staff. Styck Decl. (Dkt. 56), ¶¶ 21, 23, 24; Barbieri Decl. (Dkt. 63), ¶ 29;
4 Ex. 126 at US001001; Ex. 128, US000703, 724, 731; Trial Tr. (Rodgers) at 39:4-6 (“If it’s a
5 corporate return, we suggest the corrections to the account balances and we get a new P&L
6 to support the tax return as it would then appear.”); 47:2-10); 52:11-15; 53:13-17 (“We
7 would determine them by-you know, Ramon might consult on the financials. I might be
8 involved in an adjustment. Alla might know enough to make the call on it herself.”).

9           71.     The 2009 and 2010 profit-and-loss statement for Rossmith had no fewer than 10 four iterations. Exs. 110, 145, 146, 147, 150, 151, 152, 154, 162, 165, 235, 237, 240.

11           72.     The iterations were necessary because the initial profit-and-loss statements had 12 negative balances indicating that income and expense items were not adequately
13 characterized. Trial Tr. (Rodgers) at 51:17-52:18.

14           73.     Despite the apparent difficulties Rossmith and Ross Pac experienced in 15 attempting to characterize income and expense items, Rodgers did not ask for supporting 16 documentation.

17           74.     On January 30, 2009, Ross Pac wrote a $212,000 check to Rossmith. In its 18 general ledger, Ross Pac entered this check in the account category designated as 19 “suspense.” Rossmith entered this check in its general ledger in an account category
20 designated as “corporate operating expense.” Exhibit 126, US000943, US001208. Ex. 128,
21 US000565, 731.

22           75.     Styck recharacterized the $212,000 entry in the Ross Pac general ledger from 23 the suspense account category to the costs-of-goods sold account category at the direction of 24 John Q. Rodgers Law Corporation. There is no evidence that Ross Pac purchased $212,000
25 of goods from Rossmith. Styck Decl. (Dkt. 56), ¶¶31-32; Ex. 128, US000703, 731.

26           76.     The costs-of-goods-sold category is for direct expenses of the corporation in 27 the production of goods, such as direct material costs, direct labor costs, and the purchase of 28 assembled materials. Trial Tr. (Rodgers) at 18:6-9.

1           77. Expenses that are not directly related to the costs of goods sold are not
2 supposed to be included in the costs-of-goods-sold category. Administrative, office, and
3 sales expenses are supposed to be recorded in categories other than the costs-of-goods-sold
4 category. Trial Tr. (Rodgers) at 18:6-9 & 18:16-23.

5           78. Regarding the $212,000 entry in the Rossmith general ledger in the 6 corporate-operating expense account category, it was included in the total amount of 7 negative $422,959.27 in that category. Ex. 126, US001208-09.

8           79. Ross hired and paid Rodgers to prepare his 2009 and 2010 federal income-tax
9 returns. Rodgers signed Ross's 2009 and 2010 federal income-tax return as the preparer.
10 Ross Decl. (Dkt. 55), ¶ 12; Ex. 21, US003292; Ex. 256, US000046.

11           80. For Ross's 2009 and 2010 tax returns, Rodgers did not apply the 12 home-mortgage-interest limitation contained in IRC § 163(h)(3) to Ross's home-mortgage
13 interest although the limitation was applicable. Nguyen Decl., ¶¶ 6-19, 2-23; Troitskaya
14 Decl., ¶¶ 46-48; Rodgers Decl., ¶¶ 93-95.

15           81. At the time that Rodgers completed Ross's 2009 and 2010 tax returns,
16 Rodgers knew of the home-mortgage-interest limitation contained in IRC § 163(h)(3). As a
17 consequence, Ross's 2009 and 2010 returns understated tax. Nguyen Decl. (Dkt. 97), ¶¶
18 6-19; Troitskaya Decl. (Dkt. 58), ¶¶ 46-48; Rodgers Decl. (Dkt. 60), ¶¶ 93-96.

19           82. In 2009 and 2010, Ross had a home office, which consisted of no more than 20 about 650 square feet of his 4,000 square-foot home. The home office therefore constituted
21 about 16.25% of Ross's home. Ross Decl. (Dkt. 55), ¶¶ 27-28.

22           83. Although Rodgers knew that Ross had a home office, Rodgers did not know
23 the square footage of the house or office, even though those measurements are used by tax
24 preparers to determine the allocation of expenses to the home office. Rodgers Decl. (Dkt.
25 60), ¶¶ 63, 65-67; Trial Tr. (Rodgers) at 33:18-20, 55:19-24.

26           84. When he signed Ross's 2009 and 2010 tax returns, Rodgers did not view it as 27 part of his job to know the square footage of Ross's home office and simply assumed his 28 office knew that information. Troitskaya, however, testified that she relied on Rodgers to 1 determine the percentage allocation of the home expenses to the home office. Trial Tr.

2 (Troitskaya) at 166:23-167:6 (“Q: How did you know how much to allocate between the
3 two? A: “I asked John-John Rodgers if it’s 80/20 percent, 80 percent for schedule A, 20
4 percent for business use of home, like rental.”); Trial Tr. (Rodgers) at 36:21-37:4 (“It
5 wouldn’t be part of my job to trace that down. I don’t prepare the returns.”).

6 85. Neither Ross nor Styck recollect being contacted by anyone at John Q.
7 Rodgers Law Corporation regarding any questions about expenses pertaining to Ross’s
8 home office of the allocation between personal expenses and those pertaining to his home
9 office for tax years 2009 and 2010. Ross Decl. (Dkt. 55), ¶ 29; Styck Decl. (Dkt. 56), ¶ 36.

10 86. On Ross’s 2009 tax return, $6,275 is claimed for advertising expenses for the 11 home office, $4,550 is claimed for legal and other professional expenses pertaining to the 12 home office, $8,918 is claimed for cleaning and maintenance attributable to the home office,
13 and $3,214 is claimed for gardening attributable to the home office. On Ross’s 2010 tax
14 return, $2,235 is claimed for legal and professional expenses pertaining to the home office,
15 $2,367 is claimed for cleaning and maintenance attributable to the home office, and $2,400
16 is claimed for gardening attributable to the home office. Ross does not recollect having any 17 advertising expenses or legal and other professional expenses for his home office in 2009
18 and 2010, and his expenses for cleaning, maintenance, gardening, tree trimming, and pool
19 maintenance for his home for those years were about $10,200. Ex. 21, US003299; Ex. 256,
20 US 000054; Ross Decl. (Dkt. 55), ¶¶ 30-33.

21 87. Allocating 16.25% of the cleaning and maintenance expenses and the 22 gardening expenses (even assuming that all of those expenses (such as pool maintenance) 23 could be allocated to the home office) and comparing those to the expenses claimed on the 24 return, and accounting for the deduction for non-existent advertising, legal, and professional 25 expenses, results in an overstatement of deductions, and corresponding understatement of 26 Ross’s tax liability of, at a minimum, $21,209.50 in 2009 and $3,822.50 in 2010. Nguyen
27 Decl. (Dkt. 97), ¶¶ 6-32; Troitskaya Decl. (Dkt. 58), ¶¶ 46-48; Rodgers Decl. (Dkt. 60), 28 ¶¶ 93-99.

1           88.     Keller hired and paid Rodgers to prepare his 2009 and 2010 federal
2 income-tax returns. Rodgers signed Keller's 2009 and 2010 federal income-tax returns as
3 the preparer. Rodgers Decl. (Dkt. 60), ¶ 82; Ex. 63, US003264; Ex. 64, US003326.

4           89.     For Keller's 2009 and 2010 returns, Rodgers did not apply the
5 passive-activity-loss limitation contained in IRC § 469 to Keller's passive-activity losses
6 although the limitation was applicable. Nguyen Decl. (Dkt. 97), ¶¶ 33-36; Troitskaya Decl.
7 (Dkt. 58), ¶¶ 43-45; Rodgers Decl. (Dkt. 60), ¶¶ 88-90.

8           90.     At the time that Rodgers completed Keller's 2009 and 2010 returns, Rodgers
9 knew of the passive-activity-loss limitation contained in IRC § 469. As a consequence,
10 Keller's 2009 and 2010 returns understated tax. Nguyen Decl. (Dkt. 97), ¶¶ 6-19;
11 Troitskaya Decl. (Dkt. 58), ¶¶ 43-45; Rodgers Decl. (Dkt. 60), ¶¶ 88-91.

12           91.     In 2009, Rossmith paid $58,508.50 either directly to Keller or on behalf of 13 Keller related to Keller's Kings Road Condo rental property. In 2010, Rossmith paid at least
14 $58,521.48 either directly to Keller or on behalf of Keller related to Keller's Kings Road
15 rental property. Keller Dep. (Dkt. 42) at 103:24-25; Ex. 126, US001209; Ex. 127, US
16 001452-1453. Rodgers did not report these amounts as income on Keller's 2009 and 2010
17 returns. Ex. 63, US003263; Ex. 64, US003325.

18           92.     In 2009, Keller claimed deductions of $40,543 for mortgage, $5,902 for HOA
19 dues, and $7,943 for taxes for the Kings Road Condo rental. In 2010, Keller claimed 20 deductions of $40,543 for mortgage, $5,903 for HOA dues, and $7,943 for taxes for the 21 Kings Road Condo rental. Ex. 63, US003273; Ex. 64, US003336; Troitskaya Decl. (Dkt.
22 58), ¶ 39; Ex. 56; Ex. 72.

23           93.     In 2009, Rossmith paid a total of $29,161.67 (after consideration of the 24 reimbursement it received from Ross Pac and Freshtech) for mortgage and HOA expenses
25 for Keller's Kings Road rental property. Keller Dep. (Dkt. 42) at 103:24-25; Ex. 126,
26 US001209. The $29,161 was included in the $108,516 that Rossmith claimed as a rent
27 expense on its 2009 tax return. Rossmith included the $7,942.52 it paid for the King's Road
28

1 property taxes in the $173,803 it claimed as a deduction for taxes and licenses for 2009. Ex.
2 41, US003683; Ex. 235, Rodgers_000934-935.

3 94. In 2010, in addition to the amounts Rossmith paid to Keller related to the 4 Kings Road rental property, Rossmith paid $326.64 (after consideration of the 5 reimbursement it received from Ross Pac and Freshtech) for expenses associated with the 6 Kings Road rental property. Ex. 127, US001453. The $326 was included in the $58,792
7 that Rossmith claimed as a rent expense on its 2010 tax return. Ex. 116, US002525 (line
8 16); Ex. 235, Rodgers_001005-1006 (total rent expense of $58,792 includes $326.64 for 9 “Kings Road Condo”).

10 95. Rossmith hired and paid Rodgers to prepare its 2009 and 2010 federal income
11 tax returns. Ross Decl. (Dkt. 55), ¶ 11. Rodgers signed the Rossmith 2009 and 2010 tax
12 returns as the return preparer. Ex. 41; Ex. 116.

13 96. Rossmith’s 2009 tax return:

- 14 a. Understated total income (line 11) by not including money it received
15 from Ross Pac and Freshtech that was not allocated as reimbursement
16 by Rossmith to a shared expense.
- 17 b. Overstated the salaries-and-wages deduction (line 13) by including 18 amounts for which it received reimbursement.
- 19 c. Overstated the taxes-and-licenses deduction (line 17) by including 20 amounts for which it received reimbursement.
- 21 d. Overstated advertising deduction (line 22) by including non-deductible 22 country-club dues.
- 23 e. Claimed deductions related to Keller’s King’s Road Condo rental
24 property that were also claimed by Keller on his personal returns and
25 that, in any event, were not business-related expenses.

26 97. In 2009, Rossmith received $422,969.27 from Ross Pac and Freshtech that 27 was not allocated to any shared expense, as reflected by the negative balance in the 28

1 corporate-operating-expense account. Ex. 126 at US001208; Barbieri Decl. (Dkt. 63), ¶ 29;
2 Styck Decl. (Dkt. 59), ¶ 30.

3 98. Such transfers above the allocated shared expenses is income to Rossmith.
4 IRC § 61; Barbieri Decl. (Dkt. 63), ¶¶ 27-29; Styck Decl. (Dkt. 59), ¶¶ 28-31; Ex. 11
5 (Rodgers_002587); Ex. 12 (Rodgers_002590).

6 99. Despite Barbieri's knowledge that a negative balance in the 7 corporate-operating expense category was income to Rossmith, it was not reported as
8 income on Rossmith's 2009 and 2010 returns. This is shown by the absence of the negative
9 corporate-operating-expense account in the computation of the gross receipts reported on the 10 tax return. Other than gross receipts, no other income items are reported on Rossmith's
11 2009 return. Thus, Rossmith did not include as income the $422,959.27 in transfers from 12 Ross Pac and Freshtech that exceeded their reimbursement payments for shared expenses.
13 Absent any other adjustments, an understatement of total income by $422,959.27 yields an 14 understatement of taxable income by that amount which yields an understatement of tax.
15 Ex. 41; Ex. 116.

16 100. On its 2009 tax return, Rossmith Packaging claimed a deduction for salaries
17 and wages (not including compensation for officers which is reported at line 12) of 18 $273,526. Ex. 41 (line 13). According to its 2009 general ledger, Rossmith paid a total of 19 $65,360.65 in salaries for 2009 after consideration of reimbursement received from Ross Pac
20 and Freshtech. Ex. 126, US001191-1193.

21 101. According to its 2009 general ledger, Rossmith paid a total of $56,052.43 in 22 "services/consulting/1099" for 2009 after consideration of reimbursement received from 23 Ross Pac and Freshtech. Ex. 126 at US001194-1195. Therefore, for 2009, Rossmith paid a 24 total of $121,413.08 for salaries and "services/consulting/1099" for 2009 after consideration
25 of reimbursement received from Ross Pac and Freshtech. ( $$65,360.65 + $56,052.43 =$
26  $$121,413.08$ ). Rossmith's tax return for 2009 overstates its expenses for salaries and 27 "services/consulting/1099" by $152,112.92 (Amount claimed of $273,526 minus actual 28 amount expended per general ledger of $121,413.08).

1           102. On its 2009 tax return, Rossmith Packaging claimed a deduction for taxes and
2 licenses of $173,803. Ex. 41. The taxes claimed include Keller's King's Road Condo rental
3 property, which he owns and rents, for which he also claimed a deduction. Styck Decl.
4 (Dkt. 56), ¶ 20; Ex. 126, US001197; Ex. 63, US003273. Rossmith overstated its deduction
5 for taxes and licenses by $88,694.49. Amount claimed of $173,803 minus total paid for 6 taxes and licenses (less Keller's property taxes) of $85,108.51 equals $88,694.49.

7           103. Rossmith paid total dues and subscriptions in 2009 of $11,569.46. Ex. 126,
8 US001159-60. This amount included $4,085 in membership dues that Rossmith paid to 9 Manhattan Beach Country Club. Styck Decl. (Dkt. 56), ¶ 18; Ex. 126, US001159-60. For 10 2009, Rossmith received reimbursement for dues and subscriptions from Freshtech and Ross
11 Pac, in the total amount of $4,230.89, leaving a balance of $7,338.57. Ex. 126. Of the 12 $11,569.46 total dues and subscription, Rossmith's allocated portion was 63.43%.
13  $($7,338.57 / $11,569.46 = .6343)$ . Therefore, of the $5,047.49 that Rossmith total paid for 14 membership dues at Manhattan Beach Country Club, $3,201.62 was Rossmith's allocated
15 portion.  $($5,047.49 \times .6343 = $3,201.62)$ .

16           104. All versions of Rossmith's profit-and-loss statements for 2009 reflected
17 expenses for dues and subscriptions of $7,338.57. Ex. 145, Rodgers_000957; Ex. 146,
18 Rodgers_000946; Ex. 147, US000914; Ex. 235, Rodgers_000934. In the final version of 19 Rossmith's profit-and-loss statement for 2009, next to the $7,338.57 entry for dues and 20 subscriptions, Troitskaya wrote "advertising." Ex. 235, Rodgers_000934. On its 2009 tax
21 return, Rossmith claimed a deduction for advertising of $7,339. Ex. 41, US003683.

22           105. The membership dues for the Manhattan Beach Country Club were not
23 deductible by Rossmith. IRC § 274(a)(3). The membership dues for Manhattan Beach
24 Country Club were not included in Ross's or Keller's reported wages from Rossmith. Ex.
25 21; Ex. 63.

26           106. As set forth in paragraphs 91 to 94 above, Rossmith claimed deductions on its 27 2009 tax return that were also claimed by Keller. In addition to claiming the same
28

1 deductions as Keller for the Keller's Kings Road Condo rental property, those expenses
2 were unrelated to Rossmith's business. Keller Dep. (Dkt. 42) at 103:24-25.

3 107. Rossmith's 2010 tax return:

- 4 a. Understated total income (line 11) by not including money it received
5 from Ross Pac and Freshtech that was not allocated as reimbursement
6 by Rossmith to a shared expense.
- 7 b. Overstated the deduction for dues and subscriptions (line 26 / statement 8 1) by including non-deductible country-club dues.
- 9 c. Claimed deductions related to Keller's King's Road Condo rental
10 property that were also claimed by Keller on his personal returns and
11 that, in any event, were not business-related expenses.

12 108. In 2010, Rossmith received $498,641.85 from Ross Pac and Freshtech that
13 was not allocated to any shared expense, as reflected by the negative balance in the 14 corporate-operating-expense account. Ex. 127, US001452; Barbieri Decl. (Dkt. 63), ¶29;
15 Styck Decl. (Dkt. 59), ¶ 30. Absent any other adjustments, an understatement of total 16 income by $498,641.85 yields an understatement of taxable income by that amount which 17 yields an understatement of tax. Ex. 116.

18 109. Rossmith paid total dues and subscriptions in 2010 of $9,543.79, before
19 consideration of reimbursement from Ross Pac and Freshtech. Ex. 127, US001412-13. This 20 amount included $4,085 in membership dues that Rossmith paid to Manhattan Beach
21 Country Club. Styck Decl., (Dkt. 56), ¶ 18; Ex. 127, US001412-13. For 2010, from 22 Freshtech and Ross Pac, Rossmith received reimbursement for dues and subscriptions in the 23 total amount of $7,481.83, leaving a balance of $2,061.96. Ex. 127, US001412-13. Of the 24 $9,543.79 total dues and subscription, Rossmith's allocated portion was 21.6%. ( $$2,061.96 /$
25  $$9,543.79 = .2160$ ). Therefore, of the $2,061.96 that Rossmith total paid for membership
26 dues at Manhattan Beach Country Club, $445.38 was Rossmith's share. ( $$2,061.96 \times .216 =$ 27  $$445.38$ ).
28

1           110. All versions of Rossmith's profit-and-loss statements for 2010 reflected
2 expenses for dues and subscriptions of $2,061.96. Ex. 165, Rodgers_002403; Ex. 237,
3 Rodgers_001005; Ex. 162, Rodgers_000331; Ex. 110, Rodgers_002484. On its 2010 tax
4 return, Rossmith claimed a deduction for dues and subscriptions of $2,062. Exhibit 116 at 5 US002525 (line 26), 2534 (statement 1).

6           111. The membership dues for the Manhattan Beach Country Club were not
7 deductible by Rossmith. IRC § 274(a)(3). The membership dues for Manhattan Beach
8 Country Club were not included in Ross's or Keller's reported wages from Rossmith. Ex.
9 64; Ex. 256.

10          112. As set forth in paragraphs 91 to 94 above, Rossmith claimed deductions on its 11 2010 tax return that were also claimed by Keller. In addition to claiming the same
12 deductions as Keller for the Keller's Kings Road Condo rental property, those expenses
13 were unrelated to Rossmith's business. Keller Dep. (Dkt. 42) at 103:24-25.

14          113. Ross Pac hired and paid Rodgers to prepare its 2009 and 2010 federal income
15 tax returns. Freshtech hired and paid Rodgers to prepare its 2010 federal income tax return.
16 Ross Decl. (Dkt. 55), ¶ 11. Rodgers signed the Ross Pac 2009 and 2010 and Freshtech 2010
17 tax returns as the return preparer. Ex. 25; Ex. 118; Ex. 239.

18          114. Ross Pac's 2009 tax return overstated its deduction for salaries. Specifically,
19 while the tax return reflects that Ross Pac paid $233,038 for contract services, employees,
20 officers, and other salaries (which were reported on line 2 (costs-of-goods sold) of the tax 21 return instead of lines 12 (compensation of officers) and 13 (salaries and wages)), the 22 general ledger reflects expenses in these categories of only $203,122.34 of which 23 $202,402.34 was paid to Rossmith. Ex. 150; Ex. 128, US000728-730. In addition,
24 Rossmith's 2009 general ledger reflects that Rossmith paid $216,610.88 in officer's salaries
25 and received no reimbursement for these payments from Ross Pac and Freshtech. Ex. 126,
26 US001193-1194.

27          115. On its 2009 tax return, Rossmith claimed a deduction for compensation to 28 officers of $217,608. Ex. 41, US003683. Rossmith therefore paid the entirety of the

1 officers' salaries and claimed the full deduction for those salaries, but Ross Pac also claimed
2 an $86,841.42 deduction for officer's salaries, which was placed in the costs-of-goods-sold
3 category on its tax return. Ex. 41, US003683; Ex. 128, US000728-730; Ex. 150,
4 Rodgers_001939; Ex. 239, Ross_00274, Ross_00278.

5 116. Reducing line 2 (costs of goods sold) on the tax return by $86,841.02 (the 6 officers' salaries that were not incurred) and by $29,915 (the "salaries-other" for which there
7 is no support) increases Ross Pac's total income by that amount which, in turn, increases
8 Ross Pac's taxable income by that amount and, as a consequence, increases Ross Pac's total
9 tax. IRC § 1 (computing tax as a percentage of taxable income); Ex. 239, Ross_00273.

10 117. On its 2009 tax return, Ross Pac overstated its costs-of-goods sold by 11 including the $212,000 transfer to Rossmith. Ross Pac's general ledger reflects total costs of 12 goods sold of $3,976,920.13. Ex. 128, US000703-704. This account category includes a 13 line entry that states: "Per JR move from suspense monies Suspense $212,000." Ex. 128,
14 US000703. There is no evidence that Ross Pac purchased $212,000 of goods from Rossmith
15 in 2009. Styck Decl. (Dkt. 56), ¶ 32. Rossmith did not allocate the $212,000 to any 16 expenses it incurred on Ross Pac's behalf. Ex. 126, US001208. Reducing line 2 (costs of 17 goods sold) on the tax return by $212,000 increases Ross Pac's total income by that amount,
18 which, in turn, increases Ross Pac's taxable income by that amount and, as a consequence,
19 increases Ross Pac's total tax. IRC § 1 (computing tax as a percentage of taxable income);
20 Ex. 239, Ross_00273.

21 118. On its 2009 tax return, Ross Pac overstated its costs-of-goods sold by
22 including $2,712.71 for payroll-tax expenses, which it did not incur. Ross Pac's 2009
23 general ledger includes an entry in the costs-of-goods-sold account that states "Adjust per JR
24 as labor as monies pd / payroll taxes $71,485.30." Ex. 128, US000703. In 2009, Ross Pac
25 had only reimbursed Rossmith for $68,772.59. Ex. 126, US001172-1181. Thus, Ross Pac
26 overstated the amount it reimbursed Rossmith for payroll taxes by $2,712.71. ( $$71,485.30 -$ 27  $$68,772.59 = $2,712.71$ ). Reducing line 2 (costs of goods sold) on the tax return by 28 $2,712.71 increases Ross Pac's total income by that amount which, in turn, increases Ross

1 Pac's taxable income by that amount and, as a consequence, increases Ross Pac's total tax.
2 IRC § 1 (computing tax as a percentage of taxable income); Ex. 239, Ross_00273.

3 119. Ross Pac's and Freshtech's 2010 tax returns:

- 4 a. Overstate rental expenses.
- 5 b. Overstate expenses for dues and subscriptions.
- 6 c. Overstate expenses for supplies, repairs, and maintenance.

7 120. Comparing the amount of rent claimed as deductions on line 16 of their 2010
8 tax returns, Rossmith (Ex. 116), Ross Pac (Ex 118), and Freshtech (Ex. 25) with the amount
9 of actual rent paid as reflected in Rossmith's 2010 general ledger (Ex 127), shows that while 10 Rossmith, Ross Pac, and Freshtech collectively paid only $203,725.15 in rent expenses, they 11 collectively claimed deductions for rent of $303,696. Ex. 127, US001433-1453.
12 Specifically, Ross Pac overstated its rental deduction on its 2010 tax return by $63,432.76,
13 and Freshtech overstated its rental deduction on its 2010 tax return by $48,091.88.
14 Reducing the rental deductions claimed by Ross Pac and Freshtech by these amounts
15 correspondingly increases their taxable income and total tax.

16 121. Additionally, as set forth in paragraphs 91 to 94 above, the rental deductions
17 Ross Pac and Freshtech claimed on their 2010 tax returns included a portion of the 18 deduction associated with Keller's Kings Road rental property that was also claimed by 19 Keller. In addition to claiming the same deductions as Keller for the Keller's Kings Road
20 rental property, those expenses were unrelated to the business of Rossmith, Ross Pac, and 21 Freshtech. Keller Dep. (Dkt. 42) at 103:24-25.

22 122. In 2010, Rossmith paid a total of $9,543.79 for dues and subscriptions,
23 including the non-deductible expenses for the Manhattan Beach Country Club. Ex. 127,
24 US001412-1413; IRC § 274(a)(3). Of this $9,543.67, Ross Pac reimbursed Rossmith
25 $2,646.25 and Freshtech reimbursed Rossmith $4,835.58 for total reimbursements of 26 $7,481.83. Ex. 127, US001412-1413.

27 123. On its 2010 tax return, Ross Pac claimed a deduction of $4,922 for dues and 28 subscriptions, thereby overstating its deduction by at least $2,275.75. Ex. 118, US002510

1 (line 26), US002517 (statement 1) ( $$4,922 - $2,646.25 = $2,275.75$ ). On its 2010 tax return,
2 Freshtech claimed a deduction of $5,659 for dues and subscriptions, thereby overstating its
3 deduction by at least $823.42. Ex. 25, US001812 (line 26); US001821 (statement 1) ( $$5,659$
4  $- $4,835.58 = $823.42$ ). In addition, the amount that Ross Pac and Freshtech could claim for 5 these deductions would be further reduced because about 43% ( $$4,085 / $9,543.79 = .428$ )
6 of the dues that Rossmith paid were for dues for Manhattan Beach Country Club, which are 7 not deductible. Ex. 127, US001412-13.

8 124. Comparing the amount contributed by Ross Pac to Rossmith for supplies
9 based on Rossmith's 2010 general ledger (Ex. 127, US001339-1441) with the amount of
10 payments from Ross Pac to Rossmith in Ross Pac's general ledger (Ex. 129, US000842-843)
11 and Ross Pac's March 3, 2011 profit-and-loss statement (Ex. 242) shows that while 12 Rossmith's general ledger reflects that Ross Pac contributed only $7,153.76 toward the 13 actual expenses for supplies, repairs, and maintenance, Ross Pac's general ledger claimed
14 $20,124.97 payments to Rossmith for supplies, repairs, and maintenance while its 15 profit-and-loss statement claimed payments of $17,124.97 in payments to Rossmith for 16 supplies, repairs, and maintenance.

17 125. Comparing the amount contributed by Freshtech to Rossmith for supplies
18 based on Rossmith's 2010 general ledger (Ex. 127, US001439-1441) with the amount of 19 payments from Freshtech to Rossmith in Freshtech's general ledger (Ex. 131, 20 US002100-2101) and Freshtech's March 8, 2011 profit-and-loss statement (Ex. 171) shows
21 that while Rossmith's general ledger reflects that Freshtech contributed only $2,261.98
22 towards the actual expenses for supplies, repairs, and maintenance, Freshtech's general
23 ledger and its profit-and-loss statement claimed $9,696.16 in payments to Rossmith for 24 supplies, repairs, and maintenance.

25 126. Comparing the amounts claimed as deductions for supplies, repairs, and 26 maintenance on lines 14 and 20 (statement 1) of their 2010 tax returns, Rossmith (Ex. 116),
27 Ross Pac (Ex. 118), and Freshtech (Ex. 25) with the actual amount paid for supplies, repairs,
28 and maintenance paid as reflected in Rossmith's 2010 general ledger (Ex. 127,

1 US001433-1437) shows that Ross Pac overstated its deductions for supplies, repairs, and
2 maintenance on its 2010 tax return by $9,971.24, and that Freshtech overstated its
3 deductions for supplies, repairs, and maintenance on its 2010 tax return by $7,624.02. This
4 also shows that while Rossmith, Ross Pac, and Freshtech collectively paid only $17,595.26
5 for supplies, repairs, and maintenance, they collectively claimed deductions for supplies,
6 repairs, and maintenance of $29,945. Reducing the deductions by these amounts increases
7 the taxable income and total tax of Rossmith, Ross Pac, and Freshtech.

8 Conclusions of Law

9 1. Through IRC § 6694, Congress imposed penalties on tax return preparers who 10 understate a taxpayer's tax liability.

11 2. Section 6694(b) imposes liability for understatements due to a tax return
12 preparer's willful or reckless conduct.

13 3. The elements for liability under IRC § 6694(b) are:

- 14 a. Rodgers is a tax return preparer as defined in IRC § 7701(a)(36);
- 15 b. The tax returns prepared by Rodgers contained an understatement of tax
16 liability due to Rodgers's conduct; and
- 17 c. Either
  - 18 i. Rodgers's conduct in the preparation of the tax return was a 19 willful attempt in any manner to understate the liability for tax 20 on the return; or
  - 21 ii. Rodgers recklessly or intentionally disregarded the applicable
22 rules and regulations resulting in the understatement.

23 4. Under IRC § 7701(a)(36), a tax-return preparer is defined as any person who 24 prepares for compensation, or who employs one or more persons to prepare for 25 compensation, any return of tax imposed under Title 26.

26 5. The Treasury Regulations state that "a preparer is considered to have 27 recklessly or intentionally disregarded a rule or regulation if the preparer takes a position on 28 the return or claim for refund that is contrary to a rule or regulation ... and the preparer

1 knows of, or is reckless in not knowing of, the rule or regulation in question.” 26 C.F.R. §
2 1.6694-3(b).

3 6. The Treasury Regulations also state that “a preparer is reckless in not knowing
4 of a rule or regulation if the preparer makes little or no effort to determine whether a rule or 5 regulation exists, under circumstances which demonstrate a substantial deviation from the 6 standard of conduct that a reasonable preparer would observe in the situation.” 26 C.F.R. §
7 1.6694-3(c)(1).

8 7. Accordingly, if the preparer knew of the rule and did not apply the rule, then 9 he is liable for the penalty under IRC § 6694(b)(2)(B).

10 8. According to the Treasury Regulations:

11 The tax return preparer generally may rely in good faith without 12 verification upon information furnished by the taxpayer. . . . The 13 tax return preparer is not required to audit, examine or review
14 books and records, business operations, documents, or other
15 evidence to verify independently information provided by the 16 taxpayer, advisor, other tax return preparer, or other party. The 17 tax return preparer, however, may not ignore the implications of 18 information furnished to the tax return preparer or actually 19 known by the tax return preparer. The tax return preparer must 20 make reasonable inquiries if the information as furnished
21 appears to be incorrect or incomplete.

22 26 C.F.R. § 1.6694-1(e)(1).

23 9. The preponderance-of-the-evidence standard applies to the penalty provisions
24 of IRC § 6694(b). See Herman & MacLean v. Huddleston, 459 U.S. 375, 389, 103 S. Ct.
25 683, 74 L. Ed. 2d 548 (1983); United States v. Kapp, 564 F.3d 1103, 1109 (9th Cir. 2009).

26 10. The definition of willfulness under IRC § 6694(b)(2)(A), which is not
27 otherwise defined by the statute, includes reckless disregard. See Safeco Ins. Co. v. Burr, 28 551 U.S. 47, 57, 127 S. Ct. 2201, 167 L. Ed. 2d 1045 (2007) (“We have said before that

1 ‘willfully’ is a ‘word of many meanings whose construction is often dependent on the
2 context in which it appears,’ and where willfulness is a statutory condition of civil liability,
3 we have generally taken it to cover not only knowing violations of a standard, but reckless 4 ones as well.”) (quoting Bryan v. United States, 524 U.S. 184, 191, 118 S. Ct. 1939, 141 L.
5 Ed. 2d 198 (1998)).

6 11. Under the Internal Revenue Code, “gross income means all income from 7 whatever source derived” except as otherwise provided by the Code. IRC § 61(a).

8 12. “Because tax deductions are a matter of legislative grace, statutes providing 9 for them should be narrowly construed.” Strange v. Commissioner, 270 F.3d 786, 787 (9th
10 Cir. 2001).

11 13. Double deductions are not allowed for the same economic loss. Charles Ilfeld
12 Co. v. Hernandez, 282 U.S. 62, 68, 54 S. Ct. 596, 78 L. Ed. 1127 (1934) (absent clear
13 Congressional intent, double deductions are not allowed); Marwais v. Commissioner, 354
14 F.2d 997, 998-999 (9th Cir. 1965).

15 14. A taxpayer may not deduct expenses for which it has been reimbursed or for 16 which it has a right to reimbursement. Glendinning, McLeash & Co., v. Commissioner, 61
17 F.2d 950, 952 (2d Cir. 1932); Estate of Boyd v. Commissioner, 28 T.C. 564, 566 (T.C.
18 1957) (“It is well settled that expenses for which there exists a right of reimbursement are 19 not ordinary and necessary business expenses[.]”).

20 15. Absent a business purpose, the payment of personal expenses by a corporation
21 on behalf of its shareholders is not deductible to the corporation and is a constructive
22 dividend to the shareholder. Dobbe v. Commissioner, 61 Fed. App’x 348, 349 (9th Cir.
23 2003)

24 16. Section 274(a)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code provides that “no deduction
25 shall be allowed ... for amounts paid or incurred for membership in any club organized for 26 business, pleasure, recreation, or other social purpose.” This prohibition includes dues for 27 country clubs. 26 C.F.R. § 1.274-2(a)(iii) (clubs organized for business, pleasure, 28 recreations, or other social purposes include country clubs).

1           17. Partners are agents of each other and one's knowledge is imputed to the other.
2 Friend v. H.A. Friend & Co., 416 F.2d 526, 533 (9th Cir. 1969) ("Well established concepts
3 of partnership doctrine impute the knowledge and actions of one partner to all others.").

4           18. Rodgers is a tax-return preparer under IRC § 7701(a)(36) of the Internal
5 Revenue Code for the 2009 and 2010 tax returns of Ross, Keller, Rossmith, and Ross Pac,
6 and the 2010 tax return of Freshtech.

7           19. Rodgers willfully understated the tax on Ross's 2009 and 2010 tax returns or,
8 alternatively, recklessly or intentionally disregarded the home-mortgage-interest limitation
9 when preparing the return.

10           20. The 2009 and 2010 Ross tax returns prepared by Rodgers contained an 11 understatement of tax as reflected by the following:

- 12                   a. The tax returns did not apply the mortgage-interest-limitation for loans 13                               over $1,000,000.
- 14                   b. The tax returns claimed deductions for Ross's home office for which 15                               Ross had no expenses for at least the claimed advertising expenses and 16                               legal and other-professional expenses.
- 17                   c. The tax returns claimed deductions for personal expenses by 18                               overstating the home-office's portion of the expenses in at least the 19                               cleaning-and-maintenance expenses and the gardening expenses.

20           21. Rodgers willfully understated the tax on Ross's 2009 and 2010 tax returns as 21 reflected by the following:

- 22                   a. Rodgers had knowledge of the home-mortgage-interest limitation and 23                               did not apply it despite the amount of the claimed home-mortgage
24                               interest being in excess of $78,000, which should have caused him to 25                               inquire as to the amount of the home mortgage.
- 26                   i. The fact that Rodgers made the same mistake in both 2009 and
27                               2010 causes the Court to conclude that Rodgers willfully
28                               understated the tax and reject the explanation offered by Rodgers

1 that although Rodgers knew of the deduction limitation, he
2 “inadvertently” missed the issue. The Court concludes that the
3 explanation offered by Rodgers is not credible.

4 ii. The Court additionally concludes that Rodgers understated the 5 tax on Ross’s 2009 and 2010 tax returns by recklessly or
6 intentionally disregarding the home-mortgage-interest limitation
7 as reflected by the following:

8 (1) Rodgers knew of the home-mortgage-interest limitation
9 and did not apply it.

10 (2) The amount of interest claimed should have alerted
11 Rodgers to the possible application of the rule.

12 b. Rodgers claimed deductions for categories of expenses that are not 13 facially related to home offices such as advertising expenses and legal 14 and professional expenses.

15 c. Ross did not, in fact, incur advertising expenses or legal and 16 professional expenses relating to his home office.

17 d. Neither Rodgers nor his associates made any inquiries to Ross or Styck
18 regarding these implausible expenses.

19 e. Regarding categories of expenses such as gardening, cleaning, and 20 maintenance that, although plausibly may be related to the home office,
21 Rodgers claimed expenses in amounts that were in excess of an
22 amounts that were allocable to those categories.

23 f. Neither Rodgers nor his associates made any inquiries to Ross or Styck
24 regarding the proper allocation of these facially personal expenses, only 25 a portion of which might be plausibly allocated to the home office.

26 22. Rodgers willfully understated the tax on Keller’s 2009 and 2010 tax returns or,
27 alternatively, recklessly or intentionally disregarded the passive-activity-loss limitation
28 when preparing the returns.

1           23.    The 2009 and 2010 Keller tax returns prepared by Rodgers contained an
2 understatement of tax as reflected by the following:

- 3           a.    The tax returns did not apply the passive-activity-limitation.
- 4           b.    The tax returns did not report as income Keller money paid by 5                Rossmith for expenses associated with Keller's Kings Road Condo
6                rental property.
- 7           c.    The tax returns claimed deductions that were also claimed by Rossmith.

8           24.    Rodgers willfully understated the tax on Keller's 2009 and 2010 tax returns as 9 reflected by the following:

- 10          a.    Rodgers knew of the passive-activity-loss limitation and did not apply 11                it.
  - 12                i.    The fact that Rodgers made the same mistake in both 2009 and
13                      2010 causes the Court to conclude that Rodgers willfully
14                      understated the tax and reject the explanation offered by Rodgers
15                      that although Rodgers knew of the deduction limitation, he
16                      "inadvertently" missed the issue. The Court concludes that the 17                      explanation offered by Rodgers is not credible.
  - 18                      ii. The Court additionally concludes that Rodgers understated the 19                         tax on Keller's 2009 and 2010 tax returns by recklessly or 20                         intentionally disregarding the passive-activity-loss because he 21                         knew of the passive-activity-loss limitation and did not apply it.
- 22          b.    Rodgers knew that Keller owned the Kings Road Condo.
- 23          c.    Rodgers could not ignore the implications of Rossmith's profit-and-loss
24                statement identifying expenses for the Kings Road Condo and Keller's
25                information claiming expenses for the Kings Road Condo.

26           25.    Rodgers willfully understated the tax on the 2009 and 2010 tax returns for 27 Rossmith and Ross Pac and the 2010 tax return for Freshtech.

1           26.    The 2009 Rossmith tax return prepared by Rodgers contained an
2 understatement of tax as reflected by the following:

- 3           a.    The tax return did not report as income $422,969.27 Rossmith received
4                from Ross Pac and Freshtech that was not allocated as reimbursement
5                by Rossmith to a shared expense.
- 6           b.    There is no evidence in the record that this money was reimbursement
7                for allocable expenses of Ross Pac and Freshtech.
- 8           c.    Rather, the record reflects that it was a transfer in excess of Ross Pac's
9                and Freshtech's allocable expenses and, therefore, constituted income
10              to Rossmith.
- 11          d.    The corollary of Barbieri's testimony that simple transfers of money
12                between corporations are not deductible is that the recipient receives
13                income.
- 14          e.    The tax return overstated its deduction for salaries and 15                "services/consulting/1099s" by $152,112.92.
- 16          f.    The tax return overstated its deduction for taxes and licenses by 17                $88,694.49.
- 18          g.    The tax return overstated its deduction for advertising expenses by 19                including $3,201.62 for membership dues at the Manhattan Beach
20                Country Club.
- 21          h.    The tax return overstated its rental deduction by including $29,161.67 it
22                paid in expenses for Keller's rental property, which had no relationship
23                to Rossmith's business.

24           27.    The 2009 Ross Pac tax return prepared by Rodgers contained an
25 understatement of tax as reflected by the following:

- 26           a.    The tax return included claimed expenses for officers-placed in the 27                costs-of-goods-sold expenses-of $86,841.52 that were not, in fact,
28                incurred by Ross Pac.

- 1           b.     The tax return included claimed expenses for “salaries - other”-which 2                     were placed in the costs-of-goods-sold expenses-of $29,915.66 that
3                     were not, in fact, incurred by Ross Pac.
- 4           c.     The tax return included a $212,000 transfer of funds from Ross Pac to 5                     Rossmith in the costs-of-goods-sold expenses when Ross Pac did not in 6                     fact purchase goods from Rossmith. Thus, although the money was 7                     transferred, Ross Pac claimed a cost-of-goods-sold expense for what
8                     was simply a transfer of money among companies with common 9                     ownership.
- 10          d.     The tax return, in its costs-of-goods-sold section, included claimed 11                     expenses for payroll taxes, which were $2,712.71 in excess of what 12                     Ross Pac actually contributed to payroll taxes.

13          28.     The 2010 Rossmith tax return prepared by Rodgers contained an
14 understatement of tax as reflected by the following:

- 15          a.     The tax return did not report as income $498,641.85 Rossmith received
16                     from Ross Pac and Freshtech that was not allocated as reimbursement
17                     by Rossmith to a shared expense.
- 18          b.     There is no evidence in the record that this money was reimbursement
19                     for allocable expenses of Ross Pac and Freshtech.
- 20          c.     Rather, the record reflects that it was a transfer in excess of Ross Pac’s
21                     and Freshtech’s allocable expenses and, therefore, constituted income
22                     to Rossmith.
- 23          d.     The corollary of Barbieri’s testimony that simple transfers of money
24                     between corporations are not deductible is that the recipient receives
25                     income.
- 26          e.     The tax return overstated its deduction for dues-and-subscriptions
27                     expenses by including $445.38 for membership dues at the Manhattan
28                     Beach Country Club.

- 1 f. The tax return overstated its rental deduction by including $326.64 it
2 paid in expenses for Keller's rental property, which had no relationship
3 to Rossmith's business.

4 29. The 2010 Ross Pac tax return prepared by Rodgers contained an
5 understatement of tax as reflected by the following:

- 6 a. The tax return overstated its rent deduction by $63,432.76.
7 b. The tax return overstated its deduction for dues and subscriptions by at 8 least $2,275.75.
9 c. The tax return overstated its deductions for supplies, repairs, and 10 maintenance by $9,971.24.

11 30. The 2010 Freshtech tax return prepared by Rodgers contained an
12 understatement of tax as reflected by the following:

- 13 a. The tax return overstated its rent deduction by $48,091.88.
14 b. The tax return overstated its deduction for dues and subscriptions by at 15 least $823.42.
16 c. The tax return overstated its deductions for supplies, repairs, and 17 maintenance by $7,624.02.

18 31. Rodgers willfully understated the tax on the 2009 and 2010 corporate tax
19 returns for 2009 and 2010 for Rossmith and Ross Pac and the 2010 return for Freshtech as 20 reflected by the following:

- 21 a. Rodgers knew of the operation of Rossmith, Ross Pac, and Freshtech.
22 b. Although sending tax organizers to clients, Rodgers did not require
23 Ross or Rossmith, Ross Pac, or Freshtech to complete them.
24 c. Although it was Rodgers's standard practice to have a second person
25 other than himself review the tax returns after the initial preparation of 26 tax returns, he did not require that in the case of the tax returns for 27 Ross, Keller, Rossmith, Ross Pac, and Freshtech.
28

- d. Instead, this standard operating procedure was skipped in the case of these returns and the returns came straight to Rodgers for review after their initial preparation.
- e. Rodgers knew of the cost-sharing arrangement between Rossmith, Ross Pac, and Freshtech.
- f. Rodgers provided advice to and direction about the cost-sharing arrangement to Ross, Keller, and Styck.
- g. Rodgers and Barbieri knew that money transferred in excess of reimbursement was income to Rossmith.
- h. Rodgers and his associates directed Styck as to the treatment of specific transactions in the books and records of Rossmith, Ross Pac, and Freshtech.
- i. For example, Rodgers directed Styck to classify a $212,000 payment from Ross Pac to Rossmith as costs-of-goods sold when Ross Pac did not purchase any goods from Rossmith. By improperly inflating Ross Pac's costs-of-goods sold in this manner, Ross Pac improperly reduced its taxable income.
- j. Barbieri directed Styck to rename an account in the books and records of Rossmith from "suspense" to "corporate operating expense."
- k. While Rodgers and his associates directed Styck to make changes to the general ledger and the profit-and-loss statements, they never actually reviewed the general ledgers when preparing the tax returns.
- l. On a profit-and-loss statement of Ross Pac (Ex. 150), Rodgers or one of his associates included in the costs-of-goods-sold section line items designated as contract services, employees, officers, and salaries - other.
- m. The line item for officer salaries specified an expense of $86,841.52 that Ross Pac did not, in fact, incur.

- n. The line item for “salaries - other” of $29,915.55 is without support.
- o. On a subsequent iteration of the Ross Pac profit-and-loss statement, these line items are consolidated into section named “labor” and reflecting an expense of $233,038.45.
- p. This amount, which includes the $86,841 officer expense and $29,915.66 “salaries - other” expense, both of which were not incurred, was included in the costs-of-goods-sold amount on Ross Pac’s 2009 tax return.

32. The Court’s conclusion that Rodgers willfully understated the 2009 and 2010 corporate tax returns for 2009 and 2010 for Rossmith and Ross Pac and the 2010 return for Freshtech is supported by the fact that the 2009 and 2010 profit-and-loss statement for Rossmith had no fewer than four iterations. Exs. 110, 145, 146, 147, 150, 151, 152, 154, 162, 165, 235, 237, 240. The iterations were necessary because the initial profit-and-loss statements had negative balances indicating that income and expense items were not adequately characterized. These apparent difficulties created a situation in which a tax return preparer must make reasonable inquiries if the information as furnished appears to be incorrect or incomplete. 26 C.F.R. § 1.6694-1(e)(1). Because Rodgers did not make reasonable inquiries in a situation in which the situation required him to do so, his conduct satisfies the requirements for an assessment of penalties under IRC § 6694(b).

33. At trial, Rodgers sought the admission of Exhibit 259, a document prepared by Troitskaya. Exhibit 259 was not timely disclosed to the Government. Exhibit 259 was not timely identified in the pretrial documents as required by the Court’s Orders. Nor was it a document that Rodgers could properly use to impeach the revenue agent. The Court therefore sustains the Government’s evidentiary objections to Exhibit 259.

Conclusion

For all of the foregoing reasons, the Court concludes that the preponderance of the evidence supports the conclusion that Plaintiff willfully and recklessly prepared tax returns containing an understatement of liability. Plaintiff shall therefore take nothing by way of his

1 Complaint, and the Government will prevail on its Counterclaim. The Court affirms the 2 assessment of nine penalties against Rodgers pursuant to 26 U.S.C. § 6694(b). The Court
3 will issue a Judgment consistent with these Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law.
4

5 DATED: November 8, 2017

_____
Percy Anderson
UNITED STATES DISTRICT JUDGE